Welcome to Stay N Play

Fort Macleod & Granum

Kids First Family Centre

Here are a few ideas to help you understand our philosophy and get the most out of your time here with your children. If you have any questions or would like to discuss Stay N' Play please feel free to call us. 587-787-1070

We Sit on the Floor with Children

This way we can be at their level and see things from their perspective, we are able to interact with them easily and give them our attention. This allows for a fun and loving circle time by fostering touching and snuggling.

When we are on the floor we are a participant when we sit on a chair, we are an observer

Children Lead the Play

Parents follow their children as they choose what they want to play with and how they will play with it under the supervision of their parent. Parents support the play by describing and naming what the child is doing and add to the play by asking or stating things like: "I wonder what this is for?" "Where is the...going?" or "I see that you are using...."

This kind of play encourages children to be fearless explores and builds their self-confidence and self esteem

Ask Open Ended Questions

By asking open ended questions that start with Who, What, Where, When and How. Parents are encouraging the child to think for themselves. This kind of interaction builds their brain capacity by problem solving, using their imagination, curiosity and creativity.

*Ask Questions such as, "How will that work?"
"Where is he going?" and "What will happen next?"*

Children Learn How to Learn not what to Learn

We focus on prompting curiosity, creativity, empathy and problem solving as opposed to learning numbers, colors, and names of objects. This helps the child to be successful in play by not having to give the right answers. Children learn that their individual input has as much value as the answer the adult is looking for.

This encourages the child to develop a love of learning and become a lifelong learner

Toys

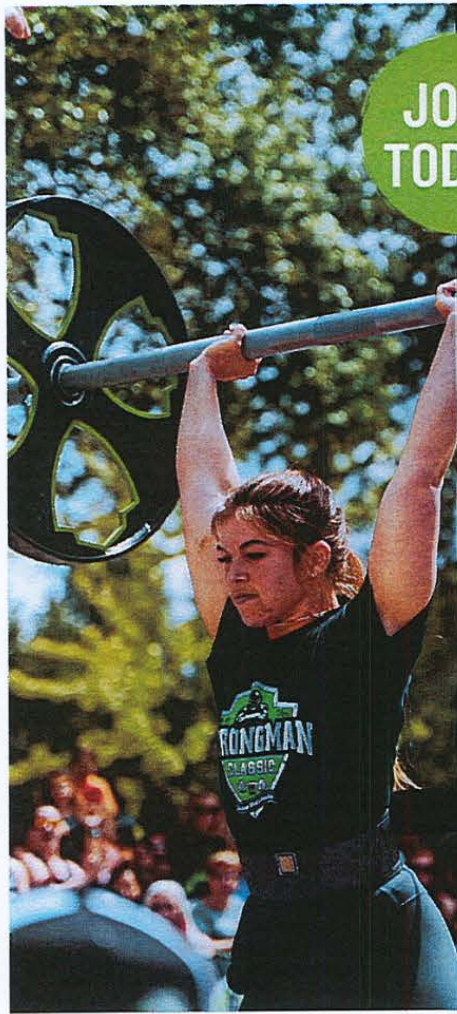

Toys are seen as materials for learning and are used for open ended, creative play, as opposed to being used only the "right" way or having "one main" purpose. The children and adults use the toys together with the adults asking open-ended questions that promote curiosity, creativity and problem-solving skills. When a child is ready to move on, together they put the toys back in the correct place to promote life skills and ensure the toys are ready for the next child to use.

Toys are children's work tools

Creative Art

All creative art is done by the children with no set structure of format. Children are given a wide variety of materials enabling them to experience a totally free environment in which they can create whatever they choose and explore as long as they want. Adults are encouraged to respect the child's art by not adding anything to it. Children are encouraged to use their heart and soul when creating.

It is the process, not the product that we encourage.
